

Mitchell-Yancey Habitat For Humanity Renovates ReStore

Have you visited your Habitat for Humanity's ReStore at 563 Oak Avenue in Spruce Pine across from the big blue NAPA Auto Parts store recently? If you have, then you have seen the nice improvements made in the organization of the store. New shelving, exciting new and gently used merchandise, and the Mini Library, all to make your Mitchell-Yancey Habitat ReStore more customer friendly.

In your Habitat ReStore you will find all the things you were accustomed to finding such as hardware and electrical items, house wares, lighting fixtures, furniture and appliances. In addition you will also find a much appreciated assortment of new doors donated to Habitat by Summit Builders of Burnsville; an array of house wares, paint supplies, cleaners, etc. which a national home improvement chain store located in an adjoining county so willingly gave to Habitat. Also some unusual and surprising items are donated to Habitat. We received a replacement window glass for a BMW car, a doll from a 1960's Disney movie, roller blades, cross-country skies, an indoor astro turf putting green, even a bidet (an self-washing commode). You could be pleasantly surprised at a treasure you may find. A replacement piece to your china or an addition to your collection may be waiting for you on our shelves.

Like to read or watch movies? Then our Mini Library is a must on your To-Visit list. Ms Frances McCurry, our volunteer librarian, has given our ever-growing Mini Library a complete makeover.

Many thanks to a Yancey County candle shop for donating a beautiful and unusual selection of candles. Thank you also to many other business and individuals for their donations of resalable goods as well as money, land and even houses suitable for remodeling for our approved families.

Lots of new faces as well as most of the original ones are at your Habitat for Humanity ReStore. Almost all of your Habitat workers are volunteers. They are not there waiting for a Friday payday; they are there because they love Habitat and enjoy working. That's why you will always find a friendly face to greet you as you enter the store or coming to your home to pick up donations.

Remember your Habitat ReStore survives totally from donations, which you and businesses give. So look around your home, storage building, or your business location for resalable items. Habitat accepts most items, no clothing please, that we can sell and convert into capital so we build houses for deserving needy families in our community.
